Adaptive Combat Pistol
(2 Days, 600 rounds)

Its not the person with the fastest draw or can shoot the tightest groups that will win a gunfight. It's the person with a solid set of essential skills and the ability to recognize a rapidly unfolding situation and adapt accordingly. This course will review essential combat shooting skills and will then add skills that are not normally found in a basic square range course. Use of cover, unconventional shooting positions, multiple target engagement, one hand shooting/manipulation and decision making/cognition drills skills will be emphasized. Adaptation is the key to prevailing in a situation where your life is on the line and this course will help bolster those skills.

Instructor - Dave Spaulding

Dave spent five years as full time use of force instructor and another five years as the commander of a multi-jurisdictional drug task force, working major narcotics cases from Seattle to Miami. During his years in SWAT and the drug task force, Dave performed hundreds of high-risk, forced entries into the lair of heavily armed felons. Working all aspects of law enforcement, including: corrections, communications, patrol, homicide detective, burglary investigations, evidence collection, and a long-term, high-risk deep-undercover operation; Dave honorably retired at the rank of Lieutenant.
